Lesson for June 29

REVIEW: THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM CONTINUED

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Making Jesus Known.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Believing in Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Shall I do with Jesus?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Meaning of Christian Discipleship.

The plan of review must always be determined by the teacher in the light of the grade of the school and the aptitudes of the pupils. For senior and adult classes the best method will be to recall that all the lessons of the quarter are from the book of Matthew, which has as its theme Jesus Christ, the Messianic King, and His Kingdom, and to present each lesson in its relation to this central purpose. The lessons have a threefold unity, namely, one book, one theme, one person.

Lesson for April 6. To prepare the disciples for the dark hour of the cross, Jesus sought to lead them to a clear apprehension of His purpose and mission. After Peter's confession of Him as the Messiah, Jesus showed to the disciples that He must come into His place of triumph through the tragedy of the cross.

Lesson for April 13. The greatest in the kingdom are those who possess childlike humility. The condition of entrance into the kingdom is true conversion, or birth from above.

Lesson for April 20. In this lesson we have divine instruction as to behavior in case of ill-treatment. Those who are Christlike shall suffer persecution. Those who have entered the kingdom by birth from above—those who have received forgiveness from God—will forgive their fellows.

Lesson for April 27. Riches are deceitful. Possessors thereof are prone to put their trust in them. It is most difficult for those who are rich to give place to spiritual things.

Lesson for May 4. Those who would be greatest in the kingdom should, like Christ the King, take the place of self-abasement. In love, Christ gave Himself for others. He substituted "the greatness of love for the love of greatness."

Lesson for May 11. To the nation which rejected Jesus as King and was endeavoring to kill Him, at the appointed time, in the councils of God, He officially presented Himself as King, in fulfilment of prophecy.

Lesson for May 18. Under the figure of a marriage, Jesus set forth the privileges and benefits of the kingdom. He used marriage, the highest ideal of love and friendship known to man, to show the benefits of the kingdom.

Lesson for May 25. In the Olivet discourse Jesus outlined the events in the world to take place in the interval between His crucifixion and His second coming. The parable of the ten Virgins shows the right behavior of believers in this present age in view of the coming of the Lord.

Lesson for June 1. By talents is meant whatever faculties and powers one possesses as God's gifts, such as physical strength, reason, knowledge, speech, song, or money. All these should be employed so as to honor God who gave them. A reckoning time is coming when account shall be rendered for their use. This will be at Christ's second coming.

Lesson for June 8. Mary of Bethany, because of her keen apprehension, saw that the Lord's body would be broken and that His precious life would go out at a time when no one could lovingly minister to Him. She therefore anointed Him as against that dread day. When the disciples criticised her act, she was defended by Jesus.

Lesson for June 15.—Jesus did not die as a martyr or as an example, but to make an atonement for man's sin. The supreme value of the lessons for the quarter centers in the cross. Therefore, it is not a matter of getting your children to learn the lessons of a great teacher, but to induce them to have faith in Christ's sacrificial death.

Lesson for June 22. The resurrection of Jesus demonstrated His Messiahship and deity. The command of Jesus to preach the gospel in all the world is backed by His resurrection power.

The Oil of Joy

Christianity wants nothing so much in the world as sunny people, and the old are hungrier for love than for bread, and the oil of joy is very cheap, and if you can help the poor on with the garment of praise, it will be better for them than blankets.—Henry Drummond.

A Moral Pivot

The Hindu professor of modern history in a South India college said to me: "My study of modern history has shown me that there is a Moral Pivot in the world today, and that the best life of both East and West is more and more revolving about that center —that Moral Pivoting is the person of Jesus Christ."—E. Stanley Jones.

Force of Character Necessary

The most brilliant qualities become useless when they are not sustained by force of character.—Segur.

JEALOUSY LEADS TO MURDER AND SUICIDE

Girl Preferred Music to Lover's Attentions.

Mamaroneck, N. Y.—Crazed by jealousy because a pretty girl, fourteen, with red curls and large brown eyes, couldn't understand his love and preferred her violin and piano studies and her high school playmates, Charles Long, twenty-five, a jobless waiter, fatally shot Sarah Sherman in her home here recently. He then turned the weapon upon himself, sending a bullet through his temple, and fell dead beside the girl.

Murder and suicide was the verdict of Dr. Amos O. Squire, Westchester medical examiner, after his examination of both bodies at the United hospital in Port Chester.

Although still breathing when police reached her home and found her in a pool of blood in the living room, three feet from the dead waiter, the girl was dead when she reached the hospital. One bullet had entered her left breast and a second her forehead.

Befriended by Family.

There was a revolver on the rug near Long's hand, all chambers empty. Six shots had been fired, three going wild and lodging one in the window sill and two in the upholstery of the davenport, where, police think, the girl had been sitting.

No one in the household of Sarah's father, Hyman Sherman, took the young waiter's attentions to the oldest daughter seriously. Long had been a boarder in the Sherman home three years. Formerly he was much liked by all of the Shermans, including Sarah's sister, Helen, eleven, and the little brother, Nathan, eight. When Long was ill in Port Chester hospital last year the Shermans aided him financially and took up a collection for him among their friends and among the waiter's fellow workers at the Annex restaurant, Mamaroneck.

Eight months ago his interest in Sally, as her school friends called her, became marked. Her parents objected and Long moved to another home around the corner, where he rented a room. A difference in religion is thought by police to have caused the Sherman's interference, as they are Jewish and Long was a Greek.

Evidence of Struggle.

More recently a group of the girl's chums said, as they stood crying on the Sherman porch after the tragedy, Sally had done everything to discourage Long. He annoyed her frequently, but still he was allowed access to the house by her parents, who had no fear of him.

The day of the shooting he called at noon, fifteen minutes before Sally was scheduled to go to her violin practice with students taking part in the opening of the Westchester Recreation center in White Plains. The little brother passed through the living rooms and saw them talking. As he reached the outside stairs he heard six shots and rushed into the house just as his mother came running from the back yard.

The girl's hair and clothing were disarranged and a table which had been leaning against a wall was overturned, leading police to believe Sarah had struggled with the man before he fired.

The mother became hysterical, crying repeatedly, "I don't want to live if Sarah's dead," and could aid the police but little in the investigation. Later she collapsed and was placed under the care of a physician.

NEW ORLEANS MART IS 200 YEARS OLD

City Plans Celebration for Anniversary.

New Orleans.—The old French market will soon celebrate its two hundredth anniversary of supplying food and color to New Orleans and its visitors.

Historians say this haunt of gourmets has the oldest continuous history of any spot in North America devoted to the sale of food. And with its age is an unequaled glamor.

In a city which takes its food and traditions alike—seriously—the combination is important and fitting ceremonies will be held.

Two hundred years ago the French market dispensed the same delicacies that make it famous now—red snapper for court bullion, pompano, crayfish and the tiny river shrimp, moss stuffed basket of crabs dedicated to fragrant gumbo, fruits of the near tropics, rice, salad fixings and vegetables. Generations of housewives and chefs' assistants have hovered there, searching for bargains and new delicacies.

Under Four Flags.

A century ago the whole of New Orleans centered about the market. Nearby was the Place d'Armes and the cathedral. Over the levee below poised the masts of ships from the old country.

Through the high and troubled years of history the old market paused with few changes. Andrew Jackson paused there, Lafayette dodged the Anna and French drip coffee that finds partisans throughout the world. There Thackeray took notes, and Joseph Lind wonderingly sniffed the mingled odors.

Long was it in Port Chester hospital last year the Shermans aided him financially and took up a collection for him among their friends and among the waiter's fellow workers at the Annex restaurant, Mamaroneck.

Eight months ago his interest in Sally, as her school friends called her, became marked. Her parents objected and Long moved to another home around the corner, where he rented a room. Swedish Flyer Saved His Life in 'Chute

Malmo, Sweden.—Sweden's fifth flyer has just qualified for the famous Caterpillar club. He is Lieut. Bjorn Behm, who saved his life in a parachute when his machine fell at a recent army air maneuver.

Lieutenant Behm was piloting a Nieuport pursuit plane and was involved in a mimic battle with a Fokker machine when his craft went into a flat spin. When he tried to straighten it out the motor stopped, and he jumped from a height of 9,840 feet, landing ten minutes later in a tree top. He was unhurt.

The other four Swedish members of the Caterpillars are Lieuts. Nils Soderberg and Broor Sjoberg, Second Lieut. Nils Billing, and Sergt. Claes Buhren.

Girl Reporters Working Their Way Around World

Columbia, Mo. — Miss Elizabeth Ahrens, graduate of the school of journalism of the University of Missouri in June, 1929, has accepted a position as circulation manager and feature writer on the Shanghai Post, Shanghai, China. Miss Ahrens and Miss Mary Shapiro, who was also graduated from the school of journalism last June, started in September on a trip around the world, earning their way by working on newspapers in the cities which they visited. They already have visited Hawaii and Japan.

Jewesses Pray to Become Mothers at Ezra's Tomb

Basra, Irak.—River steamers are crowded with Jewesses flocking to the reputed tomb of the Jewish prophet, Ezra, 90 miles up the Tigris river. All will pray that they will not be childless. The tomb is covered with a beautiful turquoise dome, with two huge palms leaning over it on each side.

No farmer can plow a field by turning it over in his mind.

LIGHTS of NEW YORK

By GRANT DIXON

Properly Stung.

Not always does the owner of a desirable piece of real estate get the price he is holding out for. A few months ago a real estate firm bought a large parcel of ground near the East river for a de luxe apartment building. It tried to get an additional strip twenty-five feet wide, but the owner of the strip wanted a large price. The firm refused, and built its apartment on a smaller area. Then, on the other side of the profit-seeker, another firm bought another parcel of land for another apartment. It, too, sought the narrow strip. The price was too high, and so another towering building was erected on smaller area. That strip is now between two six-story buildings, and of comparatively little value. It isn't big enough for another apartment building, and the little house now standing on it is unpleasantly overshadowed by its neighbors.

Working Gains.

Some 50 girl students of Hunter college, a city institution, have earned more than $25,000 in the last few months, and one of the girls gets $7 a week for taking a dog for a daily walk. Another earns considerably more for bridge lessons, and most of the students work in department stores.

The Wise Street.

Broadway, the street of the wise boys, has proved a happy hunting ground for a real old-fashioned confidence show for the last six months. What fooled our gentlemen in the belted polo coats is the circumstance that the show isn't given from the back of a wagon, but it installed in a store.

The medicine men rent their space for $2,500 a month. The "drive" starts at 10 a. m. and continues to 2 p. m. Sometimes they hang out a sign, "For Men Only." Other times it is "Ladies Only." They sell a health book and an exercising device for $1, soap for 50 cents and "medicine" for anything up to $10. The attendance, in the phrase of the medicine man, is about 2,500 monkeys a day. Small street, Broadway.

Odd Contract.

A certain playwright of this town, who has been in all kinds of suits and scrapes, financially and matrimonial and commercial misadventure, has signed a strange contract with his new lawyer. The basis of the contract is that the playwright is not a bad workman. He isn't in the famous class, but he turns out at least one producerable show a year, and that is worth something. So the contract reads that the lawyer guarantees to keep the playwright out of jail for the next five years, in return for 50 per cent of the royalties on anything the playwright turns out.

Nature Knows Best.

In the past artists have been paid fabulous salaries by manufacturers of textiles to design fabrics—and, I don't doubt, they are still being paid fabulous salaries. But something new must be had every day, and nature has had several thousands years head start on man's inventiveness. Hence, more and more, designers are falling back on microscopic photographs of snowflakes and insects for their inspiration. A man who has been photographing snowflakes for 35 years has never found two alike.

Alcohol Is Easy Winner in Unique Chem Match

Budapest.—Alcohol emerged as winner recently in one of the most unusual games of chess ever played in Hungary. Bottles of wine were used as the pieces, the cork being drawn and the contents of the "piece" consumed as it fell before the onslaught of its opponent. Although spectators were allowed to enjoy the spoils together with the two players, the game had to be called off even before either of the bishops—represented by bottles of famous Hungarian tokay wine—had been captured.

Pushes Sister Out of Danger and Is Killed

Philadelphia.—A six-year-old girl gave her life here to save her smaller sister.

The two girls, Marion Carlin, six, and Peggy Fore, six, of 2706 George street, were crossing the street at Twenty-second and Gerard avenue when a truck, driven by Melior Griffith of Manayunk, bore down on them. Marion, in an attempt to save her sister's life, pushed the younger girl aside and then had no escape. She was knocked down and one of the front wheels passed over her body. She was rushed to the Mary Drexel hospital. Physicians there said Marion had been killed instantly. Her sister was cut and bruised on the right hand.

The accident was witnessed by several women. Griffith was arrested and held to await the action of the coroner.

Students Give Elders Plenty to Think About

St. Louis, Mo.—Four St. Louis high school students completely "stumped" their elders in a competitive examination on St. Louis history here recently.

The fact that the real name of one of the founders of the city was Pierre Laclede Liguest, and not Pierre Laclede, was disclosed in the astounded business men by the youngsters.

Another youthful contestant ably outlined a plan for the consolidation of St. Louis and St. Louis county, a project which continually baffles city and county administrators.

As the competitive examination continued the students grew so completely outchone their opponents that the judges were unanimous in their decision.

Two Boys Find Nine Wolves; Get $225

Robinson, Ill.—Two local boys earned $225 in about ten minutes. When they were returning from a fishing trip they came across a den which contained nine wolves less than a week old. The boys, Marshall Weger and Knowlton Hawkins, brought the wolves to this city and received a bounty of $25 each from County Clerk Buren O. Mills.

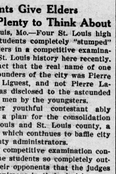
Back Quit Hurting



"I was in a very weak condition from a serious sickness," writes Mrs. I. Leonard, 671 Josephine St., New Orleans, La. "I was so weak, I wanted to sleep all the time. I did not have a strength to do anything. My nerves were nearly all the time. I was just in misery. My mother told me I must arouse myself from the sleep-spell and take something to help give my strength back. She had taken Cardui and had been helped, so I decided to take Cardui, too. After my first bottle, I could see that it was helping me. I took four bottles at this time. My strength came back and I gained weight. Pretty soon, I was my old self again.

"My back quit hurting, and I haven't had any more trouble since I took Cardui."

Old Folks Service

One June 22nd at 11 A. M. there will be a special service for OLD FOLKS at Memorial Methodist Church. The old Hymns of the church will be sung, and the pastor will preach a special sermon on the subject "Some Thoughts About Old Age."

Both old and young will find the service inspiring. If you know of any old folks who do not have a way to come please call the pastor and a way will be provided. At 8 P. M. the pastor will preach a sermon with a strong Gospel appeal. You will enjoy both these services.

Why Not Go to Church Next Sunday

Practically every one acknowledges that the Church is the most valuable institution that we possess. A great business man has said: "It is the great balance wheel of the nation and without its stabilizing influence neither this nor any other nation could long, endure."

Why then is it not more generally attended and supported? The reasons given are many and various: too many Sunday pleasures, golf, automobiles etc. Without doubt these attractions draw a great many people away from the church. But the greatest moral and physical benefits to be derived from them are obvious. The benefits to be derived from regular church attendance on the other hand may not be so obvious but they are much more enduring. Believing that they are rendering a great and much needed service the members of Liberty Church make possible the preaching of the Gospel from its pulpit twice each Sunday. They maintain a Sunday School with classes for all and two wide awake Young People's Unions for the training of its young people in christian service. Its doors are open to all. In addition to the sermons there will be special gospel music at both services next Sunday. A cordial welcome awaits you.

Bible Class Contest—The contest between the Mate Bible Class of Brookneal and Don Moses Bible Class of Liberty Church is proving to be a real fight for the honors. The points made to date are as follows:—Brookneal 2560 Appomattox 1980. The contest will continue for four more Sundays after which a picnic dinner will be served by the losing team and a game of ball played by the contesting classes.
